Mosoq Karpay ~ The Starkeeper Rite

The Mosoq Karpay offers the blessing of luminous renewal and Cosmic rebirth. Mosoq in Quechua means “new” and this transmission carries the vibration of awakening to your next becoming. The light transmission invites a release the residue of old stories and identities at a deep energetic level. Clearing the luminous field of outdated energetic patterns, you open to a potential new version of yourself. One that is capable of living expanded, luminous, and naturally harmonious with all of Life.

Within the Andean medicine tradition, this is often the first Munay Ki Rite an initiate takes upon the path to become a paqo. This new way of being is waiting to be discovered as it is already aligned with the Soul’s evolution and Sacred Path. This makes sense when you consider such a commitment as an answer to the call and embarking upon a new journey. The medicine person embarks on a Hero’s Journey, just as you’ve embarked time and time again in response to that Cosmic call which vibrated through your being.

The Starkeeper Rite aligns you with the celestial currents of time and destiny as it awakens within you the remembrance that you are a child of the stars and a co-creator of a higher dream for Pachamama. Imagine the stars generously streaming light to you. As you receive this quanta of Cosmic energy, it activates your luminous architecture and opening pathways for fresh guidance, creative inspiration, and wisdom to flow into your life.

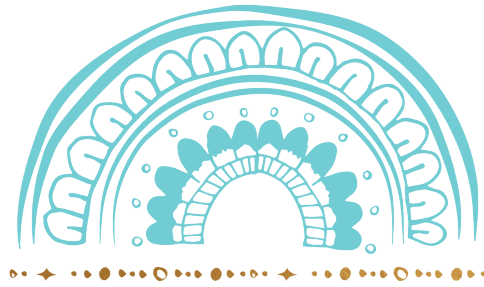

Alight with star power, you settle into the present moment as if it were a threshold. Leaving behind what no longer serves and embracing the new lived story ready to unfold. When you make the choice to receive the Mosoq Karpay, or any Karpay, you courageously choose to meet and cross the next threshold. Yet, the path before you is a mystery and the outcome is unknown.

As you welcome the light of the stars into each chakra, you may imagine a new map arising. The map markers and direction remain invisible for now, yet you know they will appear in the perfect time and you have the skill to both notice and translate them.

At its heart, the Mosoq Karpay is a reminder that each breath is a new beginning and each new day is alight with possibility. The Storekeeper Rite calls you to live with awareness that renewal is always possible as you are continually being reborn into greater light, love, and service.

The Bridge Between the North Direction and the Teacher Archetype

The Mosoq Karpay is received in the North Direction, the realm of Hummingbird where joyful flight, stillness in motion, and refined perception guides you to the Wisdom Council of Elders. Not only have you remembered that you are capable of flight, you have courageously launched after shedding the heaviness of your past. Flying higher invites a new perspective, while time with the Ancient Ones allows you to tell a new story or hear a different perspective on the stories you've been living.

This is the perfect place to meet the Teacher Archetype who embodies the qualities of Stilling, Integrity, Leadership, and Collaboration.

Stilling

As you enter the North, the Mosoq Karpay calls you into the serene wisdom of stilling. Siwar Q'Enti models stillness in flight (movement) and the stars appear to be bright storehouses of wisdom steady and still in the heavens. Welcoming the energy of the Starkeeper Rite, your stillness reveals direct access to the storehouses of abundant creativity, the dance within the Cosmic Field, and translation of direct revelation as it arises.

Integrity

Integrity becomes your compass, guiding your actions and words into alignment with the highest truth you may access. This is wholeness where everything is considered and the highest benefit for every aspect of the ecosystem benefits. You move beyond looking how each action benefits you to how each thought, word, and deed may benefit the collective now and in the future.

Leadership

As each Rite provides the foundation for the next infusion of Light (information-energy), your style of self-leadership and general leadership shifts. You move from control to presence and from offering instruction to modeling inspiration. As your field radiates coherently, it becomes easier to model that which you are living. This is a new way of interacting as you may choose or be invited into traditional leadership (guiding, teaching, mentoring) or simply lead by example in your everyday circles.

Collaboration

Collaboration blossoms as you remember that every being is your ally in the great unfolding of creation. It matters not if it is mythic archetypal partnership, communion with the natural world, or real live human beings working well together. You have something to offer, as do your partners. Called by a need, a delight, or an inner urging, you discover how to weave your medicine gifts with others and how to value every contribution without judgment.

The Mosoq Karpay invites you to not merely become like the luminous stars glowing in the celestial night or Wise Ones seated at the fire. At this stage of your journey, the invitation is to show up, take your seat, and know your place amongst the Wise Ones. You don't achieve this through demonstrated achievement or perfection, rather you radiate harmonious wisdom by showing up authentically as you are in this new moment.

Now it is time for you to relax and trust the Cosmic Wisdom flowing through you. Even as you enter a new phase or a new circle, you're encouraged to gently and promptly let go of any 'performance anxiety' as you recognize you are perfectly suited for this next phase of living.

Why not relax, trust, and show up in a new way of being? Aren't you the one who chose to fly North and sit within this Wisdom Council? Allow the infusion of star energy and the brilliant guidance of your Teacher Archetype to support this next emergence.

The Mosoq Karpay anchors your role as a Wisdom Keeper who teaches by example, lives from the heart, and walks in reciprocity with life.

This supports you as a Munay Ki Mesa Carrier. As you've journeyed around the Medicine Wheel, engaged Archetypal Guardians and Guides, and received Munay Ki Light Transmissions, you discovered more of your own medicine. In the North, seated at the fire under the night sky, you are invited to express your unique Soul gifts in a way that feels aligned and delightful for the benefit of the whole.

With the Mosoq Karpay, you enter a new path. One built upon a foundation of your lived wisdom at the intersection of your interests, inner calling, and life experience. Seeded by the stars, you begin to more fully express how you are already a Ceremonialist, Healer, Curious Explorer, Mentor/Teacher/Model, or Artist. You begin to see that you are already sharing your medicine your way and open to expansion.

Here, you remember that you are at choice in the new while surrounded by many, many partners who support and love you.

Transmission of the Mosoq Rite

In ceremony, the Practitioner opens Sacred Space, invoking the Directional Forces, Archetypal Guardians and Guides, and Munay Ki Lineages. You are invited to open your Wiracocha, allowing this golden light to expand and surround you.

The Munay Ki or Shamanic Practitioner supports your receptivity within each energy center (chakra) in a meditation. Once prepared, the energy of the stars is called and this light is poured into each chakra from root to crown. You receive this nourishing light and are guided to allow the star energy to nourish each chakra and flow throughout your entire being.

As you integrate in silence, you may experience subtle shifts in perception, dreams, or clarity about your service path. Or you may perceive nothing as the integration will take time as you nourish the seeds and live the new path into existence in the perfect time. This Karpay empowers a further awakening of the visionary Teacher within, reminding you that your life itself is a ceremony of becoming.

Integrative HomePlay

Stilling into Movement Practice

Explore the true movement of the Living Energy. Now that you are seeded with the stars and know yourself as an elemental creature, you want to practice moving in sync with the natural rhythm of Life. Sit in stillness, breathe into your heart, and ground into Pachamama. Day or night, feel yourself resting in the quiet hum of the stars and celestial bodies. Notice what guidance or clarity arises when you are asking no question nor striving to know anything.

When you feel the momentum toward movement, join in. This is not the mind telling you about the next task, reminding you of your linear schedule, or an anxious movement away from being still. You'll begin to notice a true movement like a clear thought, a whisper of an idea, or a desire to do the next thing. Play that game every day and you'll recalibrate your ability to move with the natural rhythm just as the tides move with the lunar influence.

Seek your Star(s)

The Wisdomkeeper is often called to the path by the stars and engages the celestial wisdom along their journey. What star calls you? Just as you relate to an Archetypal Guardian, you may enter into relationship with a star or star system (constellation) and seek the knowledge and energy it wishes to share. Everything is living, moving, and speaking. Your body is now primed for listening for the gifts of the Chaska Kuna (star beings).

Once seeded with the star energy in each chakra, it is important to nourish the energy with love, attention, fire, Florida water, song, and/or prayer.

Aligning with New Perception

When you feel a shift in how you perceive the world, recognize this as an important aspect of your evolutionary path. In quiet moments while moving around the world, take time to examine what is falling away. How does this feel (be honest) and how can you support the release (even when you liked what is leaving)? Notice the liminal space and how comfortable or uncomfortable you feel within this movement.

Perhaps there are merely clues that a change is coming or your path is littered with exciting ideas that have you ready to dive in. Whether this leaving and hint of the new coming is a habit/action, a relationship (person, group, mythical being, idea), or a construct (idea, paradigm, personal cosmovision), keep your gaze soft and your holding of yourself gentle. Your evolutionary path is always moving you in the direction of remembering Wholeness (integrity) and being a beneficial presence for the planet and future.

Ceremonial Collaboration

Invite another to join you in ceremony. This can be simple such as lighting a candle, offering gratitude, or blessing the Earth. It can be created in any way that you and your partner(s) choose. Leave room for creativity and inspiration. You've reached a place where you recognize your pure heart, can create a clear intent, and have plenty of experience in ceremonial participations.

Now, you are joining with others to co-create intentional ritual as a means of creative expression of harmony, love, and wellbeing for all beings and the planet. There is a joy in all parts of ceremony - creation, facilitation, participation, and the afterglow. Remember that you are never alone as you create space for community, devotion, and celebration. This multiplies the LightBody (yours, theirs, Pachamama's) and strengthens the field of Munay.

Beautiful Questions

How may I shift my current view to a new, higher perception?

Whether you are looking at an aspect of self (belief, concept, behavior), others, the world situations, or a cosmovision (paradigm), there is always another perspective. Generally stated to be “higher, this merely represents a more refined idea which is closer to true reality. Gently letting the old wrappings of conditioned habit, seemingly necessary protections, or outgrown stories to fall. So you may in time align with a new way of embracing, embodying, and living the wisdom gleaned.

This is a living question. Use a journal or just keep the dialogue ongoing as you move through your days. Allow your discoveries to land or become more consciously embraced by engaging in a relevant practice, record it on a post it note, create a piece of art, or share your new perception and inspired action/practice with one who can listen.

What hesitation or doubt arises as I arrive at this next threshold of becoming?

Can you meet this doubt with kindness, seek to understand, and then release it through the fire (or anyway you choose)? Perhaps bring it to the Teacher Archetype and/or Wisdom Council for a dialogue. At this stage of your journey this process of noticing the glitch, seeking information about it, reassigning purpose or releasing it is an easy process. This is a higher energy so it is a lighter, faster process than when you were in the South and West Directions.

How do I use Treasure Mapping to recognize and embody the Teacher Archetype in my daily life, work, and spiritual circles?

Use the practice of Treasure Mapping Backwards to explore how modeling, mentoring, and formal/informal teaching have been present in your life. The clues are there. When you see this, you may look to the current moment - where is your “teaching” or modeling alive now in formal or informal ways?

You Treasure Map future emergence of this and new Teacher/Model actions with your imagination. Make it visual to enhance the emergence in the Middle World. Embodiment occurs when you own what you are and step more fully within this state of being.

What new dream for myself, my communities, or the world is awakening within me now?

Take time to feel into this new idea and record it creatively in your journal or Magic Book. Recording every vague glimmer, tiny idea, and audacious dreaming. With the support of the celestial wisdom, ask for the path to be lit as you explore what qualities you’d envision your co-creative partners to offer to this dream. Remember to take Tiny Actions or Big Leaps - whatever is pulsing within you. Dreams without action fade away.
